A woman never looks better than her Hair

Thousands of women owe their youthful appearance to NEWBRO'S HERPicide. No matter what may be her age, a woman with a nice head of hair, hair that is soft, glossy and fluffy, always looks younger than she is.

HERPicide makes the hair beautiful with that sheen and shimmer which is so attractive and always indicates a healthy, natural growth. It keeps the scalp free from dandruff and the hair from falling out. There are remedies said to be "just as good," but HERPicide is "the genuine original dandruff germ destroyer."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold at all drug stores and toilet goods counters. Guaranteed by The Herpicide Co. Recommended and applications made by the best barbers and hair dressers.

"Going Through Bisbee Shops I Noticed That--"

New evening gowns are trimmed with silver lace, and tulle with the tulle insets in the skirts, and they are often hemmed with the same.

Gay colored ribbon neckties finished near the end with tiny ribbon fruit are new to wear with the lingerie blouses.

Collars and cuffs made of white flannel or felt are smart with a tailored suit.

The Fair is showing the prettiest new marabou, in white, pink and blue. This has taken place of the fur, to a great extent in the evening gowns, wraps, collars and afternoon dresses.

A pretty dress of white velvet, has footing of white marabou, and a large shawl collar of the same.

Trim your new Georgette blouse with coin spots of silver or gold cloth. If you are handy with your needle, you can sew them on, and then scallop or featherstitch around them with thread the color of the blouse.

You will have to search far when you find a better selection of coats than those at the Phelps Dodge. There are styles for all occasions, tweeds, velours, velvets and broadcloth, some fur trimmed and some just good lines.

Castor gray is effective if used with midnight blue. For instance a serge dress in midnight blue has embroidered of castor gray in yams.

Oriental styles and trimmings prevail in the evening wraps of this season.

The Phelps Dodge are showing a wonderful set—hat, shawl collar, and muff in castor gray Georgette, moleskin, and velvet, with tiny silk flowers for trimmings. The hat is large and has the fold of Georgette hanging down over the eyes, and its principle trimmings are mole and flowers. The collar is a wide scarf of mole, with frills of the Georgette and a buttoniere. And the muff, little, round, also of mole, and frills of the Georgette. A little bunch of silk flowers adorns it.

The more striking the lining of your coat the better style and the more in fashion you are.

Tiny metal ribbons edge the collars of the blouses, and trim the light evening gowns.

The Fair is showing some slate boots, a change from the Brides gray of the spring and summer, and much easier to keep.

Bags, dresses and silk underwear are quaintly trimmed with silk apples made of ribbon and varicolored leaves. To have a smart gown you must have a sheath of metal cloth, and now Miss Up-to-date has a silver and gold petticoat which she wears under her sheer gowns afternoon and evening alike.

Still the pocket remains and still there are new ideas for pockets.

The vogue for black and white is still demanding attention, and a prominent store in the East uses silver, black, velvet and ermine for the decorations.

Don't worry about using too much fur on your dress—that's impossible. A fall dress of black satin has large white buttons, white revers and almost elbow cuffs, and the skirt has the Russian tunic.

The Berlin Collar—a new style of hair dressing. The hair can be coiled either high or low. It has three puffs on the style of three separate figure "eights". A jeweled pin holds them in place.

The Phelps Dodge store is displaying a beautiful new afternoon gown in black panel velvet, and in the straight long and loose lines. It is a copy of the model which was chosen by Mme. Nazimova or her newest play.

The tunic is used by nearly all the designers.

Swing a little beaded bag of satin or velvet over your wrist when off for a tea.

The new corset has straight lines, and is a bit lower busted.

Camisoles made entirely of ribbon are new.

Drape veils are smart at present.

Pendant earrings are good and very coquettish.

The coat dress is accepted as the leader in the new garments.

Velvet and fur combine to make fetching collar and cuff sets for winter days.

The new mon collar is very smart when used correctly on the dresses.

SOME OF THE SEASON'S POPULAR MODELS---By MAY MANTON

ONE-PIECE dresses are to be the smartest of all things for the autumn, and this one is essentially girl-like and charming. The straight skirt is joined to a yoke which also is joined to the bodice, and the over-bodice that is finished with handkerchiefs is arranged over the foundation and closed at the shoulder, while the under-bodice is closed at the front. The wide circle makes a becoming feature. Here the dress is made of checked taffeta and the girdle and bands are of the plain color, while the collar and cuffs are of a white grandie scalloped and attached with snap fastenings in place of being sewed into position.

For the 16 year size will be needed 9 1/2 yards of material 27 inches wide, 6 3/4 yards 36, or 5 1/2 yards 44, with 3/4 yard 36 for the collar and cuffs and 1 yard 27 for the girdle and bands.

FANCY bags make an important feature of prevailing fashions. Here are three new ones. Each is easy to make and each shows a good style. Two are attached to gaiters and the third is finished with a shirred heading and a casing in which ribbon is inserted. Readers will be quick to see that the bags are very little trouble to make and in every way desirable. The bag made to match the costume is always the best and the smartest. The bag at the extreme left is cut in one piece; the bag at the center is made in sections; and the third bag is made in two pieces seamed at the sides. To make the bag at the left will be needed 3/4 yard of material of any width. For the center bag will be required 3/4 yard 27 or 3/4 yard 36. For the third bag will be required 3/4 yard of any width. The pattern No. 8765 is cut in one size.

THE bodice that gives a vest effect is much liked now and this one is exceptionally pretty. It is combined with a skirt made in Spanish style, that is, which is lengthened by a gathered flounce, and in the picture it is made from one of the new flowered taffetas with bands of plain colored silk. The little vest of chemise is of crepe de chine and the collar is of lace, but as a matter of course the design could be copied in a variety of materials. It would be pretty made of faille silk or of poplin or any one of the seasonable materials, and the crepes in silk and silk and wool are exceedingly smart and exceedingly beautiful. Both bodice and skirt are simple and easy to make for the long shoulder line which dispenses with any fitting and the vest portion is stitched to the blouse itself at the edges. If preferred, the vest can be made plain instead of full.

For the medium size the bodice will require 3 3/4 yards of material 27 inches wide, 2 3/4 yards 36, 2 1/4 yards 44 with 1/2 yard 27 for the full vest. For the skirt will be needed 7 1/2 yards 27, 6 yards 36, or 4 3/4 yards 44; it is 4 yards wide at the lower edge.

PRETTY and attractive costumes to be worn by the expectant mother are always in demand. This one is charming. It is graceful and attractive. It serves its purpose perfectly well, and it is very easy and simple to make. The skirt is straight and shirred at the upper edge. These shirrings can be made over elastic or tape to regulate the size. The bodice is made over a dart-fitted lining and the darts, instead of being sewed, are finished with eyelets and laced together so that the size can be changed at need. The surplus fronts lap one over the other and form a sash at the back. The skirt can be either gathered or accordion-plaited. Here, the costume is made of crepe de chine combined with a thin taffeta, but it can be copied in anything seasonable. For the dressy costume silk and crepe are much liked. For every-day wear the soft, pretty wool crepes or wool voiles would be charming, or one could think of the gown made with the skirt of silk voile or marquisette accordion-plaited and without any band on the lower edge, and the bodice of taffeta in plain color.

THE long waist-line is so generally becoming to little children that it is sure to be in demand. This frock shows that feature and also a yoke which is cut in one piece with the sleeves. Below the yoke, the bodice and the skirt are cut in one but the fulness is held in place by means of beading threaded with ribbon. The frock is very smart and at the same time a very simple one and since it is closed at the front for the entire length it is an easy one to launder.

LATEST FASHION NOTES from the FASHION CENTRES

NEW YORK is not exactly a fashion resort at the end of August, for while it is full of people, they are not residents and although a few new models are being shown for the benefit of these strangers, the tendency is to reserve the real display until after Labor Day, which always marks the real end of summer. The initiated, however, are full aware of the fact that all sorts of new costumes are arriving daily and that many surprises and interesting items are being hidden away in readiness for the autumn displays and it is by no means difficult to obtain glimpses of these treasures and therefore to be able to write of what will be seen when the autumn opens and there is any real interest in autumn costumes to be met. That we will wear a great deal of velvet and of velvet finished cloth is an established fact. The new suitings are really wonderfully beautiful. Broadcloth is to be extensively used and broadcloth includes a variety of plaids, checks and stripes as well as the plain colors and there is also a new broadcloth known as satin cloth which somewhat resembles a very close haired ribeline. It is lustrous and rich in effect and it drapes most exquisitely. Gabardine and serge are shown in plaids and in checks too and the gabardines, chevrons, Scotch friezes and fabrics that are designed for the costumes of harder usage, show a very interesting variety of invisible and quiet toned checks that always are handsome and always are practical. All the duvetyns, wool velours and the like are having great vogue. Real velvet is much used for suits and among the latest, are really ravish in the use of silver and gold threads used to form brocade like figures, borders and the like and there are also a great many flowered silks that are exceptionally handsome and attractive. We shall see silver and gold cause and silver and gold net extensively used and indeed silver and all sorts of metal trimmings are really important so generally are they employed.

It has been said again and again that the season of strict costumes was to be a quiet one and with reservation that fact is true, but there are a good many costumes shown in medium colors and in rich shades of red that give relief and which are really handsome, while even the quietest and most sombre colors are made bright by some bit of trimming. Frequently cerise and silver will be combined on the collar and cuffs of a dark blue gown and effects of a similar sort are very general. The blouses that are shown for simple, morning wear with the general utility suits, are made of cotton voiles, white striped with color, of white materials embroidered with colored dots, of taffeta in bright colors, of plaid and flowered taffetas and of white with color found in the collars and in the trimmings. Among the newest accessories are separate collars of striped silk showing bright colors with white and these collars can be adjusted over any plain white bodice to give the desired effect. Often white blouses are embroidered with color or smocked with color among the more dressy blouses for afternoon costumes, there is almost limitless variety found in the way in which lace is used over color, lace is combined with collars of rich and beautiful silks and in the trimmings of silver and gold that is used for collars, both under the lace and on the lace.
